SHIPYARD FIRE NEAR BALTIMORE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 21.—The shipyards of the H. E. Crooks Company, Locust Point, near here, were swept by fire this afternoon.

Piers near the yards are laden with food and other supplies for the allies and firemen concentrated their efforts on keeping the flames from reaching the piers. The flames swept over an area of half a mile. The origin of the fire is as yet unknown.

Three alarms were sent in for the Baltimore firemen.

Fire apparatus from the Baltimore and Ohio piers was rushed to the scene. Lines of hose were dropped over the edge of piers into the harbor to supply water. Ice that has formed around the plant interfered with the movements of the firemen.

Two ships on the ways are in flames. Shortage of water and the cold weather seriously hampered the work of the firemen.

The fire boat Deluge was compelled to break its way through the thick ice to get close enough to the blaze to throw several streams on the burning mass.

Two scows near the pier caught fire and were badly damaged.

LIEUT. DE LA VERGNE GOES TO ENGLAND

Lieutenant Louis D. D. De La Vergne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. De La Vergne of Clinton avenue, who has been stationed at a heavy artillery training school in France since early in October, has been assigned to Company I, in the Eighth Brigade, and is one of the twenty officers assigned from the training camp in France to an artillery training camp in England, where they will receive further instruction. The selection of officers from the training camp in France who will receive instruction in the English training camp was made as the result of examination conducted by the instructors.

TRAFFIC IS LIGHT ON PASSENGER TRAINS

The passenger traffic on the outgoing trains was below normal today and they carried but few transient people.

At the West Shore the trains for New York carried but few passengers from Kingston and the up trains fared the same although through service seemed not to be affected.

Saturday night and Sunday the outgoing trains on the Ontario and Western were well patronized by those taking advantage of the two days' vacation to spend home at home. Today but few travelers left on this branch although it is expected the in-coming trains will be packed to capacity with those returning to work Tuesday morning.

The uncertainty of those who were not positive about closing is supposed to be the cause of the light passenger traffic out of Kingston.

BILL TO CREATE A WAR CABINET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Without waiting to learn the administration's attitude officially, Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, on behalf of the senate military affairs committee today recommended immediate passage of the bill creating a war cabinet of three members to take over the active management of the war.

The measure expressly provides that the cabinet "is to be composed of three distinguished citizens of demonstrated executive ability to be appointed by the president, by and with the consent and advice of the senate."

Marlborough Estate Appraised.

County Treasurer Schantz as appraiser under the taxable transfer act has filed his report of appraisal of the estate of Charles A. Wolley of the town of Marlborough. The personal property amounts to $10,-086.78; the real estate is valued at $16,000; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $2,692.92, leaving a net estate of $23,393.86. John C. Wolley and William B. Wolley, the executors, were represented by Anthony & Anthony of Newburgh; Andrew J. Cook appeared for the state comptroller.

Wait Leaves Highway Dept.

Bertrand H. Wait, for several years division engineer of the first division of the state highway department, with offices in Poughkeepsie, has resigned and on February 1 he will take up duties with the Portland Cement Association with headquarters in New York city.

SEVERE BLIZZARD SWEEPS TEXAS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 21.—Two persons are dead and hundreds in El Paso and surrounding district on both the American and the Mexican sides of the border are facing death from cold and hunger as the result of the worst blizzard this section has known in ten years.

From Waco and other towns in Texas reports of intense suffering as a result of the storm have been received and several cities report a serious fuel shortage.

Thousands of cattle, it is believed, will perish on the ranches of the Panhandle district and in New Mexico.

HEATLESS DAY WELL OBSERVED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Heatless Monday added its handicaps to industry throughout the nation today. Throughout the entire eastern half of the United States the majority of retail establishments closed their doors in obedience to the mandate of the fuel commissioner, Dr. Harry A. Garfield.

Early reports received at the fuel administration indicated that the observance of the enforced holiday was general. The majority of people in the cities made no effort to get down town from their homes; suburbanites remained close to the furnace while the railroads and local transportation companies operated on their regular Sunday schedule. This plan will continue through all Mondays until the end of March.

The only change made was to allow the stores which sold food to remain open throughout the day instead of shutting down at 1 o'clock, as had been originally planned. This concession made by Dr. Garfield followed notifications reaching him from the majority of the subordinate fuel administrators, that local sentiment would uphold dealers in foodstuffs in defying the law. These local men who know the temper of their communities made it very plain to Dr. Garfield that under no circumstances could he expect to secure convictions against any man who kept his store open to sell food alone.

Early reports reaching here indicated that the utmost confusion prevailed in many cities over the question of operating elevators and keeping lighting plants burning. Many local administrators had ruled that no elevators whatever be allowed to run. Inasmuch as many of the skyscrapers in the larger cities keep two or three elevators running Sundays as a matter of accommodation to tenants who have real business there, the superintendents of this character of buildings had put into effect their Sunday schedule. This was not satisfactory to the fuel administrators, however, as they had demanded that all buildings be left entirely without elevator service in order to discourage tenants coming to their offices.

Although the officials at the fuel administration offices here insisted today that the general shut down of industry is rapidly solving the fuel shortage throughout the country, private messages reaching senators and representatives take sharp issue with the claim. These latter messages insist that the railroads are not operating at top speed and that in addition the severe weather which prevails again over most of the country makes top speed operation an impossibility even though the railroad officials should desire it. And there is very great skepticism here in Washington over the attitude of the railroad officials.

It seemed certain, however, that the movement of empty cars toward the mines has at least been started. Railway Director McAdoo received a report from A. H. Smith, director of the eastern railway systems, saying that not less than 10,000 empties have been released from tide water and big eastern terminals and are now on their way back to the mining centers. This report said that the general improvement in conditions could be expected to continue. Inasmuch as new demurrage rates, ranging from 50 to 100 per cent higher than those previously in practice, went into effect by order of Director McAdoo today, it is believed that the general unloading of cars will be hastened.

Most of the roads throughout the country today were refusing to accept freight of any sort. They had closed their freight depots to all incoming freight in order that they could work all men at top speed relieving the congestion in the freight houses.

The cold weather is reducing equipment at a dangerous rate. The severe cold is causing steel drawbars and brake rods to snap while hundreds of hopper cars have been put out of commission because the frozen snow and ice between the rails have caught on the hopper triggers and released the loads, causing derailing accidents. This is a condition that cannot be remedied until the weather moderates.

Corporation Will Dissolve.

The Dulles-Baldwin Electric Drill Company, an Ulster county corporation, has filed a certificate in the county clerk's office showing that papers for the voluntary dissolution of the corpiration have been filed with the secretary of state at Albany under the provisions of section 221 of the general corporation law.

NEW YORK OBEYS FUEL SAVING ORDER

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Jan. 21—New York operated on a strictly holiday basis today.

Fuel Administrator Garfield's closing order was scrupulously observed, judging from indications early in the day. The surface, subway and elevated lines ran their cars on Sunday schedules. The cars they did operate were not heated, despite the fact that another cold wave had hit the city.

The only stores open were those selling food and drugs. The big department stores closed down as did all others not exempted.

Many saloons were open but they were heatless. Bartenders attired in overcoats and caps served their patrons. Motion picture theaters opened early in the day in order to reap the harvest of increased business resulting from the holiday. All vaudeville houses had matinees also. The legitimate theater, with the exception of those controlled by one concern, cancelled their usual Monday matinee to show their appreciation of the fuel administrator's action in permitting them to remain open tonight. All theaters, includng the movies, will be closed tomorrow.

TURKEY'S NAVY IS WIPED OUT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 21—Turkey's navy has practically been wiped out by the loss of the big cruisers Sultan Selim and Midullu, and the daily News predicted today that this blow, together with the British victories on Turkish soil, will hasten the Ottoman Empire into making peace.

(The Sultan Selim and the Midulla were formerly the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which took refuge in the Dardanelles at the outbreak of the war.)

Two British monitors were sunk in the naval engagement which took place near the mouth of the Dardanelles on Sunday morning. Viscount Broome, a nephew of the late Lord Kitchener, was in command of one of the monitors and his fate is unknown.

The Breslau was sunk and the Goeben was driven ashore where she was badly damaged by bombs dropped by British airmen.

PEACE PARADE IN VIENNA

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Berne, Jan. 21.—So serious has the internal situation become in Austria-Hungary through labor strikes and peace demonstrations that Germany has sent large forces of soldiers into industrial centers with orders to shoot down rioting strikers and to force them back into the factories, according to information received today from the Austrian frontier.

There was an unconfirmed report that martial law had been declared in the communities where the industrial tie-up is crippling the output of war supplies.

There was another big peace demonstration in Vienna on Sunday, when old men and women marched through the streets, accompanied by crippled soldiers, disabled in the war.

REGISTRANTS MUST CARRY SECOND CARD

If No Appeal is Taken From Local Board's Classification, Second Notice is Mailed, Which Must be Carried on Person.

If registrants under the selective military service law and regulations do not take an appeal to the district board from the classification in which they have been placed by their local board within five days after receiving notice of such classification, their classification becomes final, and under the draft regulations the local board thereupon issues a second notice of classification, the form being known as Form 1007. The regulations require that registrants shall carry this second, or final notice of classification, on the person.

Fire Apparatus Overhauled.

The fire department of the village of Connelly is now in excellent condition owing to the work of Messrs. Willard Blodgett, John Maurer and Edward Scherer, the members of the fire board, who have had the band fire pumper engine and the steamer pump overhauled and placed in first class working order. The work of overhauling was done by Machinists Ben Mattoon and Joseph Snyder.

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

W. R. SYMONDS.

A resident of Willow, town of Woodstock, who was transferred from Co. L, 310th Inf., at Camp Dix, to 10th Tr. Battalion, Field Artillery, 157th Depot Brigade, 40th Battery, Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga.

Stephen J. Keating, who came home to try the examination for West Point, has returned to the Training Station at Newport, R. I.

Harry Palen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Palen, formerly of this city, who is a member of the United States Engineers, is now serving in France.

Elliott Rogers, son of Frank L. Rogers, of Clinton avenue, who has been performing guard duty at the Brooklyn navy yard, as a member of the Naval Militia, has sailed for France.

Ralph Voight, who is stationed with 304th Field Signal Battalion at Camp Meade, Maryland, was slightly injured about three weeks ago, but is now out of the camp hospital and on the job again with his company. Private Voight is the son of Mrs. L. Voight on Clinton avenue.

The Brooklyn Eagle's correspondent at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C., writes that Private John A. Armstrong, of Battery A, 126th Field Artillery, died of pneumonia Friday at the base hospital after a brief illness. He was 27 years old and lived at Walton, N. Y. His body has been sent home for interment.

Last week Miss Sarah Horton of Albany avenue, this city, left for Baltimore, where, at Camp Meade, she will be actively engaged in the Y. W. C. A. work similar in character to that being so splendidly carried on by the women of the south in connection with the various cantonments there. When Miss Horton has had time to become established in her work, The Freeman hopes to be able to tell its readers of the life of one who is in the service of her country.

William Forde of Lucas avenue has two sons already in the service and may have a third. Frank Forde enlisted last June and has since been attached to the submarine chasing squadron performing patrol duty along the Atlantic coast. Harison Forde has been stationed for some time at Camp Meade, Maryland, and expects shortly to sail for France. Justin Forde, who is living in Minnesota, recently was drafted and may also see service.

A Letter of Thanks.

The following letter has been received at Kerhonkson from Camp Dix on receipt of a Christmas box:

This evening a musical concert and dance will be held at the Polish school hall, on Delaware avenue.

FOURTH SON ENTERS MILITARY SERVICE

Harry W. Ross, the fourth son of Charles R. Ross of this city to voluntarily enlist in the U. S. Army is now awaiting orders to report for training in one of the government schools for aviators. It is probable that he will be sent to either Harvard, Cornell, or Massachusetts Institute of Technology to train for his commission.

Cadet Ross enlisted Saturday in New York city and was accepted in the aviation section of the Signal Officers' Reserve Corps and was one of 5 out of 100 who were appointed to a school for flyers.

This makes the fourth son to enter the service from this family, three of them, William, Donald and James Gordon, already being in action "somewhere in France."

SALOONS VIOLATE FUEL SAVING ORDERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Federal authorities here today are investigating reports of more than 100 alleged violations of the government's coal saving order which were turned in by the police during the early hours of the first fuelless Monday. Most of the violations were reported from saloons and pool halls.

Saloon keepers, after the usual Sunday close, opened for business in many parts of the city. Bartenders worked in sweaters, mufflers and mittens, serving drinks to patrons who huddled around the bar in overcoats and heavy wraps. In several saloons electric lights were turned off and rows of candles along the bars furnished light.

Chicago's industries observed the order without exception, all early reports indicated. All the big department stores were closed and in the business districts a Sabbath-like quiet prevailed.

Railroads entering Chicago reported today that the five day closing order issued by Fuel Administrator Garfield would give them time to bend all their energies to the movement of coal trains and to clearing the yards of congested traffic. The order will make possible also, the railroad men declared, the rapid movement of empty cars to the mines.

Orders practically confiscating for Chicago consumption one-tenth of the coal produced at Illinois mines have been issued by the state fuel administrator. The order directs consignment of coal from the mines to Raymond E. Durham, Cook county fuel administrator, who will supply emergency needs in the county.

Various cities throughout the state also are to be given the benefit of a similar order, the fuel administrator announced.

PROMPT ANSWER TO APPEAL FOR MILK

The appeal for milk for the nourishment of children of certain families in town which was published in The Freeman Saturday night met with a prompt response and before The Freeman had been issued fifteen minutes the Bureau of Social Service was in receipt of calls from various persons in town who were willing to supply the milk needed.

The nutritive value of milk is so well known that readers of The Freeman at once realized upon reading the appeal the imperative necessity which prompted the Bureau to seek outside aid. The first telephone message to the Bureau on Saturday afternoon carried the information that twenty quarts of milk could be furnished by that individual for a week; another agreed to furnish several quarts for two weeks and another for a month. Other messages on Saturday evening were to the same effect.

Kingston having experienced a period of intense depression several years ago is entirely familiar with the conditions here and everyone has shown a willingness to co-operate whenever the need arises.

Postponed Auxiliary Meeting.

Owing to the severe storm of last Tuesday, the union meeting of the Women's Auxiliaries of the Episcopal Churches of this city which was to have been held in St. John's parish house was postponed. The postponed meeting will now be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at St. John's parish house, and all women of the three parishes are urged to attend. They will be briefly addressed by the rector, Rev. J. I. Blair Larned.

Mishap While Looking For Zero.

"Seeing is believing." This was the theory of Thomas Hayes of 18 O'Neil street Saturday night when he was informed by his wife that it was two degrees below zero. Doubting her statement he went out to convince himself and fell on the ice, breaking his knee cap. He was attended at his home by Dr. Daniel Connelly. Mr. Hayes is a telegraph operator at the West Shore.

DRAFTING BOATS TO CARRY COAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 21.—Drastic steps were taken today by the authorities to bring an end to the coal shortage in New York city. Upon receipt of instructions from the shipping board in Washington, officials in charge of the fuel situation here began commandeering all tugs, lighters and scows in the harbor. Every boat available will be put to work immediately moving coal from New Jersey to tide water points to this city. Officials said they believed this move would result in an improvement in conditions within 24 hours.

NO DAMAGE FOLLOWS FUEL SAVING ORDER

Obeyed Locally Without Damage to Property, Thereby Robbing Calamity Howlers of Any Excuse to Howl.

A burst water pipe in a vacant Wall street store in which there has been no heat for some time cannot be blamed against the fuel saving order of National Fuel Administrator Garfield, and as that is practically the only hurry call received by local plumbers with a night of zero weather, the damage sustained by property as the result of the order of Dr. Garfield appears to have been negligible in Kingston.

Nearly all stores and offices in town were closed today on account of the fuel saving order. The exceptions were those which were excepted by the fuel having order, and those where business ordinarily is conducted with but little or no heat.

Almost without exception the law offices were closed because no fuel could be used for heating them. The lawyers found that in making searches at the county clerk's and surrogate's offices they were able to catch up with delayed work, and the county buildings were warm and comfortable because they were excepted from the provisions of the fuel saving order.

Business at the banks, the post office and stations, all county and city offices, the newspaper and telegraph offices, were conducted as usual, these business places being excepted from the fuel saving order.

With but few exceptions, the saloons and the bar rooms connected with hotels remained closed because they were heatless and the proprietors did not consider that there would be a rush of business to a bar room that was unheated.

Altogether, the day was much like the holidays but without the usual holiday gaiety. Many men who were idle part of the day found themselves planning for work on succeeding fuel-saving Mondays, and added willingly in the effort to prevent more serious conditions that undoubtedly would follow the wholesale consumption of fuel on hand at a time when the uninterrupted transportation of fuel from mines to consumers is impossible on account of unprecedented weather and economic conditions.

Every store downtown was closed tigher than it is on a Sunday for some of the stores that keep open Sundays were closed today.

The saloons were all closed as they had been notified by the police department not to sell booze today. This was done at the order of Judge Van Etten, the fuel administrator of the county.

Downtown it was impossible to buy even a cigar in a drug store and when asked the reason it was stated that one of the uptown drug stores had been notified by Judge Van Etten that it was only permissible to sell drugs and medicines and that anything else handled by the drug stores such as cigars, brushes, candies, soda water, etc., could not be sold.

This meant that if one had not laid in a supply of smokes Saturday or Sunday it was indeed a "smokeless day" for the smoker, as well as a heatless one.

Inquiry at police headquarters this afternoon developed the fact that the police had found evrything closed except the stores which were exempted.

WAR AT A GLANCE

The peace negotiations at Brest-Litovsk have yielded their first definite fruits. Official announcement was made in Berlin today that the German and Ukrainian envoys have reached an agreement mutually satisfactory as a basis for the negotiation of a peace treaty.

The situation at Petrograd following the forcible dissolution of the constituent assembly by the Bolshevik government, has become one of gravest peril. A reign of terror is said to be dawning in the Russian capital, with fresh threats of civil war in the air. So far the Bolshevik group hold the upper hand by exercising a virtual dictatorship.

There are reports of serious unrest in the Central Empires, especially in Austria-Hungary, but the amount of credence to be attached to them is problematical. It is pointed out by military critics that the Austro-German government may be camouflaging in allowing these alarming reports to reach the outside world, in hope of allaying war preparations by the Entente.

The battlefronts yield little news of importance, although there is a tremendous increase in aerial activity and the big guns are thundering all along the line.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Edgar Laufersweiler died in a sanitarium in Rome, N. Y., Sunday. He was a son of Mrs. Lena Laufersweiler of Poughkeepsie, and a nephew of John Metzler of Brooklyn. The body will be brought to this city for funeral and interment.

Miss Margaret M. Sweeney died at her home, No. 93 Newkirk avenue, Sunday evening, aged 19 years. She is survived by her father, Patrick Sweeney, one brother, John, and her grandmother, Margaret Sweeney. The funeral will be held from her late residence Wednesday morning at 8:45 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 9:30, with interment in St. Mary's Cemetery. Deceased had a large circle of friends who will mourn her untimely death.

Mrs. N. A. Sims died at her residence, No. 66 West Chester street, at two o'clock on Saturday, after a long illness of bronchitis. Mrs. Sims was a member of the Church of the Holy Spirit, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Kingston City Hospital, and the Twaalfskill Club. She was very much interested and active in religious and charitable work, up to the time of her illness. She is survived by her husband and two brothers. The funeral will be held from her residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

The many friends of Mrs. Mary C. Smith, wife of James P. Vandemark of The Vly, were shocked to learn of her death at her home on Sunday evening, January 13, after one week's illness. Mrs. Vandemark was the daughter of the late James H. Smith and was born at Kripplebush in 1861, and has always lived in that locality. Mrs. Vandemark had a wide circle of friends, who will mourn her loss. She is survived by her husband and four children, Mrs. C. C. Scott of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. R. C. Pinkham at Flushing, Mrs. L. E. Osterhoudt of Highland and Moses H. Vandemark, who resides at home, also two grandchildren, besides two brothers and three sisters. The funeral was held on Thursday at her late home. Burial at Fairview Cemetery in charge of H. B. Humiston.

The death of Jonathan S. Porter at the home of his son, Albert V. Porter, on Canal street, Ellenville, Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, removes a very old citizen from the town, for had he lived until March he would have reached 96 years. Mr. Porter was born in the Berkshires in Massachusetts and came to reside in Ellenville when a young man and was employed at the old lead mine which was at that time one of the village's chief industries. On April 19, 1846 he was united in marriage with Sarah Van Dover, daughter of Albert Van Dover and Eliza Carpenter, his wife. The Rev. S. B. Ayres, of the Reformed Church, performed the ceremony. To this union were born ten children, two girls and eight sons, four of whom survive: Saul T., of Syracuse, Albert, John and Richard of Ellenville. Mr. and Mrs. Porter were an ideal devoted couple and were spared to each other until death claimed the devoted wife on April 29, 1914. At the time of her death and since Mr. Porter has resided with his son and family, who have been devoted in the care of this venerable father—a long life ended. Up until a year or two deceased was able to go out upon the street and exchange friendly greetings with friends. He was active in the early history of the village and was a man of bright intellect, well read in history not confined alone to state but national affairs, a man devoted to home and family, a kind neighbor and a good friend, and has been kept in mind by many to whom he and his good wife were so kind in sickness and sorrow, cheering many aching hearts. He lived a good life and has gone to meet its reward. The funeral was held from the son's home Monday afternoon. The four sons were present at the services, also the devoted granddaughter, Miss Sadie E. Porter, of Brooklyn, was called home. The service was conducted by Rev. Joseph E. Appley, of the M. E. Church and interment made in the family plot in the Ellenville Cemetery.

FEDERATION HEARS PATRIOTIC MUSIC

At the meeting of the Federation of Women's Club held at the lecture room of the Fair Street Reformed Church on Saturday afternoon, the goodly number of women present, made the first move toward community singing of patriotic songs yet undertaken in the city, so far as publicly recorded.

Printed slips were given out containing the words of the first verses of "America," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Home, Sweet Home," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and "Star Spangled Banner," while the entire wording of "Battle Song of Freedom," as written by Mrs. M. E. Fessenden, appeared as follows:

Battle Song of Freedom.

Bring the good old bugle, boys, we'll sing another song,
Sing it with a spirit that will help the world along,
Sing a song of brotherhood, and make the echoes strong,
While we are battling for freedom.
(Chorus).

Hurrah, hurrah, we wage a righteous war,
Hurrah, hurrah, we're coming more and more,
How the Frenchmen cheer us, as we step upon their shore,
Bearing the banner of freedom.

How the Allies shouted when they heard the joyful sound
Yankee boys were on their way, from half the world around;
How the Kaiser trembled then, and knew he'd be uncrowned,
When we came battling for freedom.
(Chorus).

We are not North nor South today, we are not East nor West,
Children of one Mother we, and nourished at one breast,
Take, O World, our sacrifice, we offer you our best,
When we come battling for freedom.
(Chorus).

Yes, and there are patriots who weep with joyful tears,
When among the honored flags, the flag they love appears,
"We'll live or die for Liberty," they tell us by their cheers,
As we come battling for freedom.
(Chorus).

So, we'll make a thoroughfare for freedom and her train,
Three thousand miles across the sea, and 'round the world again,
The tyrant flees before us, for resistance is in vain,
When we are battling for freedom.
(Chorus).

The singing, which was led at the opening of the meeting, presided over by the Federation president, Mrs. Hyman Roosa, by Frank Powley, with Mrs. Augustus Van Buren at the piano, was spirited, especially the singing of the "Battle Song of Freedom," which received many words of commendation and appreciation from all present.

Before formally opening the meeting, Mrs. Roosa gave a brief account of the November meeting of the State Federation held in Albany, for which a vote of thanks was given, for the exceedingly concise, comprehensive and interesting report. The secretary, Mrs. Winne, then read the minutes of the last general meeting and also of the last executive committee meeting, in order that the entire Federation might know of certain matters that were to have presented to the general meeting. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, showed in the treasury to the Federation's credit the sum of $41.65 and to the public health fund, $26.40.

Mrs. Michael then brought up the question of the Federation being responsible in the near future for a course of lectures on Good Citizenship, the same to be given for a nominal cost, through the woman's suffrage organization, probably. Mrs. Michael called attention to the urgent need of much training of our women to fit them for the task of voting intelligently, as far as the actual knowledge of officials to be voted for, their duties, etc., regardless of personalities. But as the information regarding the proposed course of lectures was indefinite, it was voted to instruct Mrs. Michael to gather definite information on the matter and to report the same to the executive committee which shall have power to act in the matter.

Another subject carried over from executive committee meeting to general meeting was as to the wish of the organization to undertake a campaign to raise money for the Armenian and Syrian War Relief Work, Kingston's quota for the raising of this fund, having been announced to be $7,000. The Federation unanimously voted to lay the matter on the table. A few brief committee reports were then given as follows:

Mrs. Fessenden reported for the Social Center Association that the work of the sewing classes was going forward enthusiastically at School No. 3, pending the time when the Parent-Teacher Association should take it over. The class of sixty children was found too large for one day, so that it had been divided and a class was held on Tuesday and another on Thursday afternoons with Miss Vignes as teacher. Before Christmas each member of the class brought five cents and with this money, towelling and linen was purchased, so that each little girl made a dish towel and handkerchief for her mother for Christmas, the gift being all her own. The customary New Year's party was given and was, as it always is, a very happy affair. Since that time, the children had on a specified occasion brought their pennies and contributed them to a poor woman in their neighborhood who had met with unusual misfortune.

Mrs. Cole, president of the Lowell Club, told of the club's work, outside its study program, and meetings on alternate Tuesday afternoons. On the Tuesday afternoons between such meetings the club does Red Cross work at the D. A. R. Chapter House. This club had purchased a $50 Liberty bond which it had presented to the Industrial Home together with some other smaller gifts. At Christmas it had sent a box of grape fruit to the Tuberculosis Hospital. Finally it had taken charge of a booth to sell Red Cross Christmas seals.

The Atharhaeton Club, as represented by Mrs. Winne, had also had a booth and sold Christmas seals and worked at the Chapter House, doing Red Cross work on the Tuesdays when the Lowell Club was not there. This was in addition to its regular study work, and a little philanthropy at Christmas.

Mrs. Michael, speaking for the Monday Club, the oldest study club in the city, said that they did their philanthropic work through the Federation, but had devoted considerable time this fall and winter to Red Cross work at the Chapter House. They had been responsible for a Christmas seal booth.

The Coterie report, given by its president, Mrs. Terry, was similar in that in addition to its regular work it had been responsible for a Christmas seal booth, and its members were engaged in Red Cross work both up and down town.

Mrs. Gillespie, of the Sunshine Society, had, as usual, specific good accomplished to report. The Sunshine Society was reported as caring for twelve families, mostly aged people, but where there are children in two families whose heads are the mothers. It is helping with rents, having paid out for this purpose since October $80. For the first time in its history the Sunshine Society has been unable to provide milk for the old people and children whom it aids, a matter of deep regret, but unavoidable because there are not sufficient funds to meet the present high price of milk. Through the assistance of Rector Larned, of St. John's Church, ample Thanksgiving baskets had been given to the needy families in which the society was interested, and at Christmas many generous friends made Christmas cheer in goodly amount possible. The society had received from Mrs. S. D. Coykendall a box of oranges; from Arthur Carr, $5; from the Colony Bridge Club, $10; from Mrs. Frank B. Seeley, $5; from Mrs. Nash of Hurley, $1 and jelly; from George Mowell, a dozen glasses of jelly; and the thanks of the society was extended to all who had contributed as stated above or had given clothing or other aid.

Mrs. Virgil B. Van Wagonen, president of the Twentieth Century Club, told of the members assisting in the sale of Christmas seals in addition to their regular literary work.

Mrs. Rice, speaking for the Soikanishade Club, said they were doing their part in helping with Red Cross work at the Chapter House; were knitting; had a Red Cross Christmas seal booth, also a Red Cross Christmas membership drive booth; had purchased a $50 Liberty bond which they proposed to give to some local philanthropy.

Mrs. Michael stated that the Political Equality Club was in a sense taking a well-earned rest, its one interest now being neither suffrage nor anti-suffrage but good citizenship. This closed the reports, and Mrs. Roosa then turned the meeting over to the Sunshine Society, the hostesses for the day.

Mrs. W. Scott Gillespie, president of that society, in behalf of all members, extended a cordial welcome to all, and graciously introduced the guest of honor and speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Bidwell of Albany, chairman of the Third district.

Mrs. Bidwell is a woman of exceptionally pleasing personality and after a few remarks relative to the technical working of the districts and counties in the State Federation, laid strong emphasis upon the present need of the conservation of the child. With the certainty that this war would greatly deplete the country's strength of the best of her young manhood, sooner or later, Mrs. Bidwell made it more than obvious that the entire future of the country, in every sense depends upon the conservation and nurture of the childhood of today. While working in the interests of food conservation, Mrs. Bidwell said she had been even more interested in and engaged in behalf of production which must come before conservation can be possible. And after all, we had now come to the spot, said the speaker where food conservation was really too deducation, being no longer in the experimental stage but in the follow-up period. She urged the women to co-operate with Miss Stewart, the agent in this county, in this educational and conserving work. Looking to the coming productive period, Mrs. Bidwell stood strongly for the industrial draft and such a state of affairs that should make impossible any idle men. Actual work houses are needed today, in order to utilize the man power of the industrial slackers, rather than that the people should through taxation provide an easy boarding place for the men who will not work if, through some petty crime they may find their way into comfortable jails or penitentiaries. Quoting Dr. Sullivan, state historian, Mrs. Bidwell called attention to the usually unconsidered brilliant man's or woman's lack of special training. While we are spending so much—as we must and should—for the care of the feeble minded, Dr. Sullivan thinks it even more important in view of the fact that in the immediate future this country is to need leaders, and trained leaders, that some provision should be made for the education of the especially brilliant men and women of today.

Again Mrs. Bidwell urged the necessity of providing a milk station in every city, especially at this time. She called attention to the fact that from birth until six years of age, milk is the normal diet of the child, and to deprive children of this diet is to hinder and retard their natural growth. These milk stations should encourage the use of milk, in fact it should be encouraged in the whole community, for upon the increased demand will depend that encouragement to the producer which will ultimately result if anything will, in the reduced cost of milk.

Finally, Mrs. Bidwell begged, during the winter months preceding the coming period of production, for the mobilization of women and children for home gardening. Not just the little patch in front or behind the house, but the vacant lots and spaces, in order that every available piece of land may be made productive. We can no longer consider this too hard work for women lest we find ourselves confronted by work even harder in these war days. Mrs. Bidwell closed by saying that now, as never before, the world and especially our world needs organized and efficient womanhood. Mrs. Bidwell's address was heartily applauded and she was given a rising vote of thanks.

The afternoon closed, delightfully with a musical program given by James Tinnie of Port Ewen, who garbed in his handsome and picturesque Highland plaid and bonnet, etc., sang very pleasing the following Scotch songs, acompanied by Mrs. Mabie at the piano: "Its Just Like Bein' At Hame;" "The Waggle O'His Kilt;" "The Wee House Among the Heather;" "Nanny;" and "In the Gloamin.'" While all were thoroughly enjoyed, it was certain that none but a braw and canny Scotsman could have brought out the humor and pathos both so appealingly as did Mr. Tinnie in the song, "Nanny." On motion of Miss Haldane, who spoke feelingly of Mr. Tinnie's singing and his appearing in the very costume now worn, and seen from the beginning of the war in the front lines of battle where men were falling for the right and truth, Mr. Tinnie was given a rising vote of thanks as was the entertaining committee, and after singing "Home, Sweet Home," the meeting adjourned.

MAKE DAIRY BUSINESS PAY

Raise All Heifer Calves From Good Cows and Keep Purebred Sires—Have Good Silos.

To make the dairy business pay the best, raise all the heifer calves from good cows and keep purebred sires, is the advice of Wear Brothers of Illinois who speak from experience. Have good silos and put all corn raised in the silo. Have plenty of alfalfa and clover hay. Cows must be well housed and given plenty of water to get best results.

Cause of Cold Feet.

Cold feet may be habitual, constitutional or from general ill health, commonly they are so by habit. Tight shoes, a sedentary life and overeating are often guilty, asserts an authority. When there is too little ventilation of the feet or the stockings are too thick, the relief isn't easy. The feet are kept warm better by wearing thin hose and low shoes, cold baths and vigorous massage, active exercise outdoors—especially walking—than by inactive indoor life. Frequent daily washing of the feet helps to restore their warmth.

Like Getting Signatures.

Sentiment is so easily molded that three or four active people, by keeping at it long enough can convince millions that water runs up hill instead of down.—Atchison Globe.

MRS ARTHUR SCOTT BURDEN.
SOCIETY LEADER AIDS PORK PRODUCTION.

Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, society leader, who has a country place near Jericho, L. I., has been appointed chairman of the newly-formed wartime Pig Committee of Nassau County, an organization formed to promote the raising of porkers. The committee will work in conjunction with the County Food Administration authorities.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Jan. 21.—Everyone is invited to be dime social to be held at the home of Mrs. E. H. Bishop on Broadway this evening. This social is for the benefit of the Adult Bible Class of the Methodist Sunday school. An entertainment will be given, refreshments served and a pleasant evening is in store for all who attend.

Mrs. Lillian Horton and daughter, Miss Mae Horton, of Broadway spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Craig in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. John Thurston of Poughkeepsie spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Drinkle, on Hudson street.

Ray Doyle of Kingston was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. LeGraud Doyle, on Riverside avenue Saturday.

A meeting of the Missionary Society of the Reformed Church will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Miss Mary C. Elsworth on Salem street.

Oscar Lefever, who has spent a few days at his home on Broadway, has returned to New York city.

WATER GIVEN MILKING COWS

Test Proves That Animals Drink at Pond or Creek Only Enough to Satisfy Cravings.

It stands to reason that in winter the water given milking cows should not be icy. Many farmers boast of the fact that they own creeks or ponds to which their cows have access in cold weather. And while this saves work and expense, it is hard on the cows, though the farmers claim it is not. If you want to test the matter, let your cows go to the pond or creek and drink through the ice. Then, when you have returned to the stable, carry in water that is not lower than about 60 degrees Fahrenheit, and see how your cows will go after it. This proves that they drink at the pond or creek only enough to satisfy their immediate cravings and not enough to fill their bags with milk.

KICKING COW EASILY CURED

Rope Passed Around Body of Offending Animal, Drawn Tight, Will Prove Effective.

The kicking cow is easily cured by the proper methods. To cure the offending animal take a rope with a loop in one end of it or a trunk strap and pass it around the body of the cow. Draw it tight. The cow usually will jump a little at first, but when she finds she cannot get out of the rope she will stand—and cannot kick. If this method causes the cow to give bloody milk, place the rope or strap around the udder and draw it up in the same manner. With some cows this cannot be done because of the shape of the udder.

Another method is to hobble the cow by passing the rope around each leg behind the udder, and tying just above the hocks This is rather dangerous for the man tying the rope. After the preventive measure has been repeated several times the cow will stand ready to be milked.

SUCCESS IN DAIRY BUSINESS

Dairyman Must Put Himself Through Some Process of Training—Knowledge Is Essential.

Under the strained circumstances of these days, to succeed in dairy work you must know how to think, and that means that you must have put yourself through some process of training either on your own hook or by proxy that is, with the help of a school or working for some practical dairyman. It does not matter at all how you get your information, just so you get it, but to begin dairying without it is as hopeless as to jump into a deep river without knowing how to swim.

DRINKING WATER FOR STOCK

Cow Will Not Reach Maximum Production Unless She Has Abundant Supply in Winter.

Warm drinking water for the dairy stock will save feed and also benefit the milk flow. It saves feed because it does not draw on the vitality of the cow as does cold water. It benefits the milk flow because a cow will not reach her maximum production unless she drinks water abundantly. This she will not do if it is ice cold.

COW TESTING IS PROFITABLE

Farmers May Have Work Done at Nominal Cost by Joining Association—Cost Is Divided.

Farmers who are too busy to test their own cows may now have this work done for them at a nominal cost by joining a cow-testing association. A cow-testing association is an organization of about twenty-six dairy farmers who employ co-operatively a man to test their cows for economical production.

Colors That Fade.

Aniline colors often fade to entirely different colors, while vegetable dyes usually fade to tones of their own particular colors. The finest Oriental rugs owe their soft, wonderful colors entirely to vegetable dyes—in fact, the Persian government has for years prohibited the importation of aniline dyes.

SAVE INNER TUBES

Theme of Educational Campaign Instituted for Economy.

CAN SAVE MOTORIST MONEY

Undue Haste in Replacing Punctured or Blown-Out Tube Is Responsible for Multitude of Sins—Pinching Is Mistake.

Ways and means of procuring the longest service from inner tubes—an appurtenance of the automobile's mechanism that is most neglected—is the theme of an educational campaign instituted by a big rubber concern in the interests of war economy. Many unexpected outbursts from air-containers originate from "sins of omission" and "commission," and by emphasizing the more glaring ones the company believes it can save the motorist dollars that otherwise would pour into the abyss of waste.

Undue haste in replacing a punctured or blown-out tube is responsible for a multitude of the "sins." The most common mistake is pinching the tube. The tube is inserted in an uneven or twisted manner. This causes it to overlap or wrinkle, with the result that in a short time it will cut through where it has been overlapped and we have a leak.

Pinches New Tube.

The same trouble is also caused sometimes by putting a new tube into the tire just as it is taken from the box. When the tube is applied after mounting there is such an inrush of air that it will often buckle up the tube, thereby forcing a tiny section beneath the bead spreader

Especially will this occur if the valve stem is not pulled out to its proper position. The operator should proceed slowly when applying the tube. Before putting it into the casing it should be given a couple of "shots" of air, then it should be applied carefully, the inside—the side on which the stem occurs—being always kept inside

When it is in the casing it should be "talced" carefully and the fingers forced all around the tire to make sure that the talc has been evenly distributed, and then, before the loose bead is applied, the tire should be given a little more air—enough to round it out nicely and prevent pinching.

How to Use Talc.

The motorist should be cautioned against using too much talc. There are several powders procurable for keeping the tube from sticking to the casing, among these being soap stone, graphite and talc, but the use of too much of any of these proves disastrous, as a collection of substance in one place eats into the rubber. If, on the other hand, no powder be used, it will be only a short time before the heat generated will cook the tube.

Under-inflation is equally injurious to tubes When the under-inflated tire passes over a stone both casing and tube are jolted against the rim, and sooner or later a leak will develop. All tires should be inflated to the standard prescribed by manufacturers.

All tubes should be carried in a waterproof bag or well wrapped in newspaper.

ENGINE TROUBLE IS ELUSIVE

Dirty Distributor or Collector Ring Cause of Much Worry—Parts Should Be Wiped.

A simple defect that has caused many a car owner much fruitless investigation results from a dirty distributor or collector ring. It is natural that in the course of time dirt should accumulate on these parts and when it does, the result is ignition troubles that are difficult to locate, as there is no easily recognized symptoms that is characteristic. It may cause a knock, or any one of a number of varieties of irregular firing. These parts should be carefully wiped at frequent intervals, and in doing this no metal tool should be used. If it is necessary to use some implement to reach narrow spaces with the wiping cloth, a soft piece of wood should be employed.

TROUBLE IN STARTING A CAR

Difficulty Generally Due to Fact That Gasoline Will Not Vaporize at Low Temperature.

The easiest way to overcome starting difficulties with an automobile in cold weather is to apply heat to the intake manifold, in the opinion of E. V. Collins, instructor in steam and gas engineering in the Kansas agricultural college.

Trouble in starting a car in cold weather is generally due to the fact that the ordinary low grade of gasoline will not vaporize readily at low temperatures.

The intake pipe leading from the carburetor is usually vertical so that gasoline will not pass through unless it is vaporized. The velocity of air through the carburetor and intake pipe will hold the vaporized gas in suspension when the motor is once started.

By applying heat to the intake manifold enough liquid will be vaporized so that the motor will start readily. In this case the entire mixture is warmed rather than just the gasoline. Better results will be obtained than where the motor is primed with heated gasoline and the air is allowed to enter the cylinders cold.

The simplest way to apply heat to the manifold is to pour hot water over it, care being taken not to get it into the carburetor. Putting hot water into the cooling system warms the cylinder walls, but does not help to get the mixture from the carburetor to the cylinder and should not be necessary if the intake is warmed.

DEVICE TO PREVENT THEFT

Each Article in Car Is Attached to Chain, Pulling of Which Sets Signal in Operation.

In illustrating and describing a theft preventing and signaling device, invented by S. A. Deanes of West Point, Miss, the Scientific American says:

An object of this invention is to provide a device which may be used in connection with automobiles by means of which theft may be prevented of overcoats, suitcases, umbrellas and like, the object is to provide an audible signal when an attempted theft takes place, thus calling the attention of the owner or driver to the attempt. A further object is to provide a device which may be so disposed in an automobile, that articles in the front and rear seat, may be readily protected. To accomplish this each article is secured to a chain, which is connected with an electric bell, the removal of an article will pull the plug, and thus set the signal in operation.

BLUE ILLUMINATION IS BEST

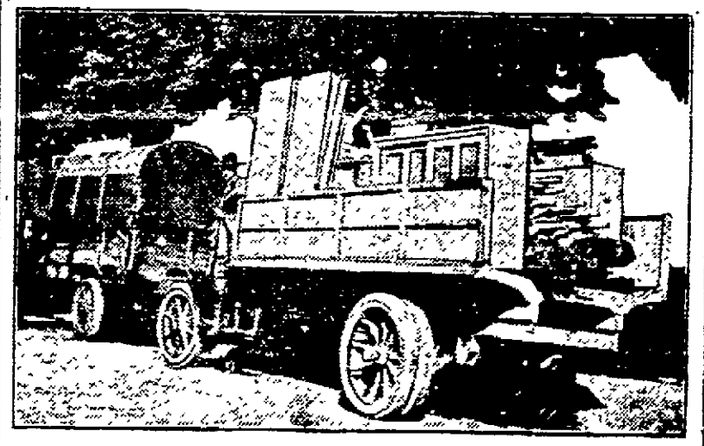
The substitution of a blue bulb for the ordinary clear one, which illuminates the dash, has certain advantages. Moreover, the blue light rather improves the appearance of the compartment at night.

IN DESCENDING A LONG HILL

To Save Gasoline Supply Shut Off Ignition—Good Plan Also to Close Throttle.

When going down a long hill shut off ignition. This also saves gasoline. Even if you use the engine as a brake, with throttle closed, you draw very little gasoline. If throttle is opened, however, you draw out a great deal, so keep the throttle closed.

THERE ARE 300,000 MOTORS AT FRONT



LOAD OF EQUIPMENT FOR TRENCHES.

The Japanese government has just completed an investigation of the number of motorvehicles now in use by the armies at war, says Power Wagon. It finds that the central powers have about 131,500 machines, including 100,000 owned by Germany, 30,000 by Austria-Hungary, 750 by Turkey and 800 by Bulgaria. The entente allies have 172,125, including 30,000 owned by England, 80,000 by France, 40,000 by Russia, 10,000 by Italy 10,300 by Belgium, 1,700 by Roumania and 125 by Serbia.

Live Right.

Right living and the right kind of work have changed many a stunted boy into a well-developed man, asserts an educator. Spiritual growth is not greatly aided by sitting down and thinking about it. Live in the sunshine of trust. Rely on a strength higher than your own. Reach out helpfully to others, and growth in the divine life will look after itself.

How a Drop Falls.

Did you ever wonder how a drop of water falls? To watch a drop of water when it falls is to attempt to penetrate the secret of an obscure science—the law which governs moving fluids.

The experiment best showing the action of a falling drop may be made by letting a drop of milk fall into black coffee. When the drop falls a crater forms around it and little drops are projected from the edge of the crater. After it has increased in size and in thickness the crater lowers and widens its rolling brim, while from the impact a liquid sphere, enveloped by the initial drop, collects at the top of the column. Then the column falls and disappears in the center of a circular ripple of water.

NEW LABOR PROBLEM.

According to the Adjutant General, it has been impossible thus far for New York State to supply its quota of one hundred and fifty bricklayers who are needed for Government work from among registrants in Class 1 as defined by the new draft regulations. In furnishing one practical bricklayer, who already has been sent forward to San Antonio, Texas, Ulster county with less than one per cent of the total citizen population of the State is not doing any more than her share, but when that one man is one of the 62 whom the State has been able to secure, then Ulster is doing more than her share. It is expected that at least one additional bricklayer will be supplied by the county from among present registrants.

While there has been a general tendency in the past dozen years on the part of young America to seek cleanly work even at lower wages than are paid in the various trades or even for farm labor, it cannot be charged that Ulster county's sons shirk work. They are not lazy and we are not burdened with what Colonel Roosevelt not long ago termed "lango lizards." There are exceptions here the same as there are in every community, of young men who believe that the world owes them a living, but the number of Ulster County boys who have made good at home and in other cities is the highest recommendation possible for Ulster's sons as a class.

It would seem strange that trades at which men work for short hours and receive substantial wages, such as bricklayers, are not plentifully supplied with young men, particularly in the big cities, but a big factor in discouraging young men from entering some of the trades has been the difficulty of serving an apprenticeship where the workers are controlled by the labor unions. Where the supply of certain kinds of workmen is limited, the wages of such workmen command bigger prices and the men who are able to secure such wages are not eager to see the visible supply of workmen increased to an appreciable extent. Therefore young men sometimes find difficulty in getting the experience necessary to become proficient workmen in certain lines because of the application of the union's rules. In seeking only higher wages for himself and not considering the possibility of his own son or his neighbor's son entering the same business, the father of a family sometimes saves at the spigot only to lose at the bung. The readjustment of labor conditions, among other economic problems, is sure to come at the close of the war and the return to civil life and industrial activity of many hundreds of thousands of young American men. They are learning valuable lessons now in discipline and in discerning the differences in human nature. That they will apply their knowledge to their own affairs and to public affairs later there can be no doubt. There will be problems to be worked out in Ulster County, and in every County and State, and the soldier of today must be depended on and reckoned with when the time comes for their solution.

NO TELLING ABOUT RUSSIA.

The reported threat of war by Bolshevik Russia upon poor little Rumania, already practically overrun throughout by the Germans, tends to confirm a very widespread impression that there is absolutely no telling what Russia as now ruled may do, and seems likely to weaken President Wilson's confidence in the worthy purpose of the dominating element in that country. We ought to be ready to overlook many follies among a people just emerged from the age-long, cruel shadow of Czarism and now inevitably intoxicated by their new freedom, but if they are ready to make war upon helpless Rumania after repudiating the principle of war itself, and after too readily hearkening to the peace proposals of faithless Germany, their real enemy, they must forfeit the sympathy and destroy the patience of even the most friendly observer.

If all the accounts are true, dominant Russia is without a doubt literally freedom-mad. Think of workmen who before the revolution received one ruble a day and who now demand two rubles for an eight-hour day, insisting further on a lunch hour, an hour to smoke, and two hours for the discussion of socialistic and governmental problems, thus cutting their working day down to four hours. It sounds incredible, and there may be much exaggeration, but there are innumerable indications that free Russia is sorely afflicted and that it must suffer hard things before a reign of common sense will be possible.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Pa, what's an infernal machine?" "Why, a phonograph running at night when we are trying to sleep."—Boston Transcript.

"I'll bet you do some cranky thing to make your wife begin the tirades you complain of." "Nothing in the cranky way doing. She's a self-starter."—Baltimore American.

"What are you worrying about now girlie?" "Oh, a girl never really knows how much a man loves her." "Christmas, however, gives one a fairly good line on the situation."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Do you dictate your speeches to a stenographer?" "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "When I talk I am so accustomed to demonstrations of approval that the absence of applause disconcerts me."—Washington Star.

"Do you believe in telepathy?" "You mean," responded Miss Cayenne, "the art of communicating thought without audible speech?" "Something like that." "I am not sure whether it could be made to work or not. But I know a number of people who ought to try it."—Washington Star.

"K. C. M. G."

When Sir George Reid, the genial High Commissioner for the Australian commonwealth, was made a knight commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, the people of Australia, who had known him as plain George Reid, worried him a good deal about his new dignity. At one of his political meetings, remarks The Family Herald, someone called out: "Say, Sir George, what does 'K. C. M. G.' mean?" Without a moment's hesitation the new K. C. M. G. replied, "Keep Calling Me George."

Not Enough Languages.

There had been a fatal accident at the railroad crossing in a town in Iowa, and the coroner, a pompous old chap, who magnified both his office and its incumbent, had impaneled a jury for the inquest.

There was only one witness of the accident, an illiterate Slav laborer, who could understand no English. With him the coroner began to struggle.

"Can you speak English?" he asked.

The man shook his head.

"Can you speak German?"

Again the man shook his head.

"Can you speak Italian?"

The same response.

"Can you speak Russian? Can you speak Swedish?" were the next questions, to both of which the man signified in the negative.

"It's no use, gentlemen," said the coroner, turning to the jury. "We can't proceed with the case. I've spoken to this man in five different languages and can't make him understand a word. Case dismissed."

The Finishing Touch.

Harry had become much interested in playing soldier. At first he was content to march about merely with a stick for a gun. Then, at his request, his mother made him a paper hat, to which later she added a plume which Harry had discovered in a neighbor's chicken yard. After a time he found he must have a belt, with a sword.

One day he confronted his mother, dressed in all his warrior's finery.

"Why, how like a soldier you look!" she exclaimed.

"Y-e-s," he agreed, "but I've been looking at a picture of Napoleon, and he has scrubbing brushes on his shoulders!"—New York Times.

Good Provider.

To understand the force of this story one must first know that Cain's storehouse is the place in New York where the scenery and properties of most of the theatrical productions that meet an untimely fate on Broadway are sent for storage.

A group of members sat in the smuggery of the Lambs Club on an afternoon not long ago. A sombre gentleman, wearing his hair long and wide rubber rims on his eye-glasses, passed through.

"Who is that?" asked one of the party, addressing Hap Ward, the comedian.

Ward looked and recognized in the passer a playwright who wrote no fewer than three pronounced failures last season.

"O, that," said Ward, "That's Cain's favorite author."—Saturday Evening Post.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, Jan. 21.—The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. Church went on a sleigh ride to Kingston where they were entertained in the home of Mrs. Myron Freer on Friday last.

Miss Josephine Hasbrouck is spending a month in the Industrial Home in Kingston.

Mrs. Mary Brink has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Simon DuBois, of Binnewater.

Do not fail to hear the play, "The Piper's Pay," to be given in the Grange Hall, on Wednesday evening, January 23, beginning at 8 o'clock. The orchestra of Company H will assist with the music. Clam chowder, ice cream, cake and coffee will be served after the entertainment. The names of the seven young ladies who take part in the play, as well as a suggestion of its plot, appeared in last week's issues of The Freeman. In addition to the musicians from camp, a number of our local musicians will play or sing. Altogether we think that the entertainment will be one of the best given in the place in a long time. So come from far and near and see what you will hear. Hitch your dappled grays, or your team of spanking bays before your old bob sleighs, and bid your neighbors come. You only pay a quarter to get in. First you pay the Piper, and then the Piper pays you.

KRUMVILLE.

JUST WHAT HAPPENS IN A SHIPWRECK

Corporation Counsel Brinnier Writes Entertainingly of What Happened on the "Olivette" When She Was Wrecked on the Coast of Cuba.

Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier has written a letter to his sons, ex-City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., and Parker Brinnier, describing his experiences and those of Mrs. Brinnier and Miss Cornelia Cartright, of Saugerties, who accompanied him, when the steamer, "Olivette" was shipwrecked on the coast of Cuba early in the morning of Saturday, January 12th.

The letter is particularly interesting because it is an actual description of an actual occurrence. It differs vastly from imaginative descriptions of shipwrecks and for the reason that the story is told in simple and direct language, without hysterics, it is the more interesting and valuable.

Mr. Brinnier's letter is as follows:

Havana, Sunday, Jan. 13th, 1918.

Dear Boys:—

We certainly had an eventful trip, trains were delayed and off time all along the line. When we were near Savannah, Georgia, I noticed the train had stopped there about 4 o'clock on Thursday morning. I got out of the sleeper to investigate, and found the express car next to the engine was all ablaze. The engineer disconnected it from the train and took it about 200 feet from the rest of the train, unhooked the engine from it, and then we waited for it to burn up; when the wood work was consumed the truck was removed from the track and we started again for the South.

We arrived at Key West about 2 o'clock in the afternoon on Friday, and laid there until we got on the steamer "Olivette" for Havana, which left about 10 o'clock at night. We all retired to our state rooms. About 3:30 in the morning, Saturday, as I lay in my berth I heard a grating as if the boat was on ground. The next thing I heard was an old man, a passenger, running through the boat hollering like a d—— fool! "We are all going to drown, the boat is sinking."

I jumped out of my berth and opened the door and told him to shut up as he would get the women all crazy. His daughter said, "Well, my father is nervous," and I should not talk to him that way. I told her if he was nervous she should take care of him and not get all the women frantic with fear as I could see there was no immediate danger. I called mamma and Cornelia and told them to dress, but the old fool had scared everybody so the women were rushing out of the state rooms in their pyjamas.

We were up on the coast of Cuba and then could not get the vessel off. I could see there as no immediate danger as it was on a sand bottom, no rocks, but the sea was running very heavy, and of course in time, she would be rocked to pieces, or spring a leak.

Well, they sent a wireless to Havana and in about three hours an ocean tug and a fruit liner came up, but they could not get closer than about 1,000 feet to us. After staying there about an hour and some communication between the fruit liner and the officials on our boat, she left, and it was stated that a wireless had been sent to Havana for another vessel of this same line as the Olivette. Some on the vessel claimed this was done to save expenses how this is I do not know, but I thought it was a darn shame to risk all the passengers' lives for a few dollars.

The storm and waves kept getting worse all the time, finally another vessel got there about 12 o'clock and and they immediately commenced to send the passengers on life boats to the other vessel, a distance of at least 1,000 feet. I managed to get mamma and Cornelia on the fourth boat that left. They did not want to go unless I went, but I told them to go in —— quick as I was all right and could get ashore even if I did not get on the boat, as I had sized up the situation and as the boat was only about 200 feet from the shore, I could take a chance and swim and have the immense breakers take me in. Several others insisted that the women should all go first, but a few Cubans got in the first boat.

The sailors certainly handled the life boats well. Waves sometimes were 25 feet high. All the passengers had life-savers on. It was the first I ever had that experience. It was awful hard to get the passengers out of the life boats on account of the heavy seas. After I got aboard I sat down for a while. It was an open boat, a kind of a tramp steamer, no covering except a little canvas. Mamma and Cornelia laid down there with other ladies. Of course they were all wet and it was raining hard. While waiting for the boat to come to our assistance, they served us scrambled eggs and coffee, and I guess I ever ate for a short time after I was aboard the rescue ship. I went to the rail and fed it all to the fish. They transferred the hand bags after the passengers were transferred, but I guess my two trunks and everything in them are gone. There is a rumor here this morning that they may recover the trunks, but everything will be ruined in them even if they do. We arrived in Havana about three o'clock. This was something of an experience, I tell you.

When I was buckling the life-saver on mamma, she was putting a shawl around her neck. What do you think of that? She said she could not stand the wind. I told her she might have some water around it and it would be in her way in case she had to swim or float but she kept the shawl there just the same. We will leave here either Monday or Wednesday for the Isle of Pines. With love to you all.

FATHER.

NOTABLE RED CROSS BENEFIT ON FEB. 4.

With the change from Monday to Tuesday as closing day for all places of amusement, as made by Fuel Administrator Garfield, it will be possible to give the notable Red Cross benefit concert at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening, February 4, as originally planned, and Harry P. Dodge, chairman of the entertainment committee, announces that the concert will be given on that date. This concert promises to be of most exceptional interest because of both soloists. This will be the first time that a Kingston audience—or any large concert audience for that matter—will have the privilege and pleasure of hearing Miss Elise Hasbrouck, daughter of Justice and Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck sing, since she has been devoting her time to the study of her art exclusively. Those who have been so fortunate as to hear Miss Hasbrouck sing in New York, assure all music lovers of a very real treat.

In addition, David Hochstein—now himself at Camp Upton—the noted violinist will appear. While Kingstonians have not heard Hochstein in their home city, it is known that he is one of the violinists of foremost rank in this country today. The New York Times critic says of Hochstein's playing, "His performance was one of remarkable excellence; his thoroughly artistic feeling, his understanding, his repose of style; the bigness and beauty of tone and his uncommon accuracy of intonation, were notable qualities of it." "Hochstein is a true violinist. His playing is easy, graceful and warm blooded," says the Philadelphia Ledger.

Quite aside from the object of this concert, the needed aid of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross, a fine musical treat is in store for all who attend and in order that all may attend the price of tickets has been placed at the nominal sum of 50 cents, the full receipts going to the Red Cross. In addition to these regular tickets, it is desirable to have as large a patrons' list as possible, thus increasing the fund. The price of becoming a patron is $5, and any and all persons willing to become patrons should communicate with Harry P. Dodge, telephone 690-J as soon as possible.

YOUTH KILLED IN UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

A Cartridge that Was Accidentally Put in a Stove Explodes and Fatally Wounds Poughkeepsie Young Man.

Struck in the head by a bullet from an exploding cartridge in a kitchen range, Hiram Young, 18 years old, received a wound from which he died in Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, an hour after the accident, which happened Friday evening at the home of George Palmateer, 3 Lafayette street, Poughkeepsie, with whom Young was boarding.

During the afternoon James Palmateer, 18 years old, cleaned his 22 calibre rifle. He placed some of the cartridges taken from the magazine of the rifle on the table, and one of them dropped to the floor. Later Mrs. Palmateer swept the floor, not noticing the cartridge, and put the sweepings, containing the cartridge, into the kitchen range.

About fifteen minutes later Young was sitting at the supper table with members of the Palmateer family, when suddenly there was a terrific explosion and Young toppled from the chair with a bullet wound in his head.

Young was rushed to Vassar Hospital, but the bullet had penetrated the brain and he died in the hospital an hour later.

The bullet came out of a slide in the side of the range, used to regulate the cold air draft.

Right of Choice.

You cannot always choose your associates, but you can select your companions, observes a sage. Circumstances may throw you with people who are distasteful to you, but circumstances cannot force you to take them to your hearts and into your confidence. Choice is stronger than environment. Wherever you are, you always have the privilege of choosing.

Remarkable Sale of $1.00 Knitting Yarn, Extra Heavy—Tomorrow 79c a Hank. Bundle Lots 20 Hanks. 15.00

Superior worsted knitting yarn, very soft texture, making an extremely warm garment, yet sturdy and durable—particularly adapted to making sweaters, scarfs, wristlets and helmets.

A splendid opportunity for societies, clubs and Community workers to buy plenty of yarn at a great saving

The extremely low price is our answer to the country's appeal for more garments. We make it to encourage knitting in a wider degree for the soldiers and sailors, as we understand from a reliable authority that only about one-third of the men in the cantonments are properly provided with sweaters—as sweaters are not provided by the government.

Illuminated Roll of Honor

There now hangs in the vestibule of St. John's Episcopal Church a very handsome roll of honor in illuminated text of the men of the parish, the same containing 45 names, the last to be included being Charles De La Vergne. Frank Forde and Ross Goddard. A border about the space devoted to the names is of ecclesiastical design, having at the top these words: "Your prayers are asked for those who have gone to serve our flag and country by land and sea and air." There are also seen the "Helmet of Salvation," the "Shield of Faith," "The Breastplate of Righteousness," the "Sword of the Spirit" and at the bottom "Girt about with truth, with feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace."

Lute Out of Existence.

The lute has vanished. It was one of the oldest of instruments, and had a beautiful vibrant tone somewhat like that of the harp. But its size and complexity were against it. It had a long tail and many strings, and while its size increased its power and range, it also increased its weight and made it cumbrous. The minstrel of today plays on the mandolin, the guitar or the banjo—and the lute is forgot.

"We Must Sail, Not Drift."

I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving, writes O. W. Holmes. To reach the port of heaven, we must sail sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it—but we must sail, and not drift, nor lie at anchor.

Many Rats Destroyed.

A club in Kent, England, destroyed 16,000 rats in three seasons at an insignificant cost. Women's municipal leagues in the United States have recently taken up the matter of rat eradication, notably in Baltimore and Boston.

Late Food Discoveries.

Lichens have been proposed as the latest addition to staple articles of diet. One scientist has suggested Iceland moss as suitable for making flour for bread and reindeer moss as good fodder for animals.

MORE RULINGS BY ADMINISTRATOR

The fuel administrator has received the following telegrams:

Further rulings from fuel administrator this morning: Manufacturers of print paper are exempt from closing order. All schools are exempt from closing order. Manufacturers of medicine for navy exempt. Manufacturers of balances for weighting drugs not exempt. Manufacturers of necessary medicinal supplies and surgical instruments are exempted. Manufacturers of woolen yarns for sixteen and thirty ounce meltons for U. S. government exempt from closing order. No wholesale or retail stores or any other stores shall burn fuel except to prevent injury from freezing, except for the purpose of selling food, drugs and medicine supplies only. Manufacturers of aeroplane parts are exempt. Playgrounds and recreation associations of America are permitted to occupy offices on days mentioned in the fuel administrator's order of January 17. When coal is diverted please notify shipper and original consignee, giving number of car, grade and size of coal, and name and address of persons to whom the coal is actually delivered. Telephone message from Washington advises that there has been no change regarding stores closing on Mondays.

(Signed) WIGGIN.

The following telegram was received Saturday afternoon by the fuel administrator:

"Following rulings received from Washington this morning:

"Laundries not included in order of January 17.

"Manufacturers using wood waste for fuel may run sufficiently to produce shavings to keep plant from freezing.

"It is all right to continue ice harvesting. (Wholesale and retail stores may maintain heat on specified days until twelve o'clock noon for purpose of selling food only. Blacksmith shops exempt from ruling 17th. Such plants as must be run continuously to avoid serious injury to plant or contents are permitted to continue running.

(Signed) "WIGGIN."

Note.—Matter in parenthesis is void now under special ruling.

How Dogs Trail Masters.

Stories are told of how a dog will find his master when all human means have failed. They nose their masters out by their scent. That is why you should let your dog chew the slippers you have been wearing. He will get to know the scent of your shoe, and find his way home if he gets lost, or find you if you get lost, says Our Dumb Animals. You should preferably let him get the scent of your shoe to any other part, for the worn leather has a peculiar odor. When an escaped convict is tracked by bloodhounds they invariably are given the shoe as a clue, and the dogs seldom fail to track their quarry down. So next time you see your dog gnawing your boots you won't be quite so annoyed.

NEW STORE TO BE OPENED ON WALL ST.

E. S. Craft, Formerly Manager of Union Pacific Tea Company, With His Son, Will Open Grocery Store on Wall Street Saturday.

E. S. Craft of this city, who for the past fourteen years has been connected with the Union Pacific Tea Company, formerly of No. 312 Wall street, but recently removed to No. 232 Wall street, has resigned his position with the company and with his son, Raymond E. Craft, has rented the store at No. 306½ Wall street, formerly occupied by Harry P. Carr, where he will open on Saturday of this week with a complete line of groceries. Special care will be taken to supply fresh Ulster county eggs and butter at all times, with free delivery of telephone as well as personal orders. Mr. Craft has placed thirty-one managers in stores of the company and has opened twenty-one stores during his connection with the company, six of which have been for the company in this city. He is entirely familiar with this line of goods and well acquainted with the needs and wants of the public. He has been engaged in the business for the past twenty-five years and in the management of his stores has made many friends through his extensive dealings with the public.

GAME PROTECTORS MET HERE TODAY

The monthly meeting of the Hudson divisio nof the game protectors of this state was held today at the Stuyvesant Hotel. Before the regular business meeting the protectors had dinner at the hotel, and at the conclusion of the meeting target practice was indulged in at the armory. There are ten protectors, and Joseph M. DeSilva, the division chief, in the Hudson district, includes the counties of Ulster, Orange, Dutchess and Putnam.

California's Weeping Trees.

California has but two species of native trees that are normally of weeping habit. One is Quercus lobata, the valley oak, having its most southerly range near Burbank. The other is Picea Brewerlana, the weeping spruce, which is found in a few isolated mountainous sections in the northwestern corner of the state.

IMPRESSIVE SERMON ON RIGHTEOUSNESS

The three Episcopal congregations which united in their services at St. John's Episcopal Church on Wall street on Sunday were privileged to hear a sermon on "Righteousness," preached by by the Rev. Floyd S. Leach, executive secretary for the Social Service Commission of the diocese, that was such as to make both men and women do serious thinking. Starting [illegible] promise that the church and the world's one foundation was "Jesus Christ, the Lord," Mr. Leach assumed that today the whole world was looking for a new heaven and a new earth; a new earth where righteousness, Christ's righteousness, personal righteousness, civic, community, national and universal righteousness.

The speaker showed how the social life of today must be changed, given a new higher standard, and surcharged with a spirituality before unknown. Today social service is working, not so much for a community of Christians as for a Christian community, a national spiritual entity. No one ever doubts that the man who is sincerely right with God in his heart will live other than a righteous life. He may make mistakes in judgment, but his life will be right. The same conditions must become universal if we are ever to come to the new heaven and new earth we are today longing for and striving for. And this universal spirit of righteousness must be found in high places as well as in private life. It must be found in the city hall at Albany, at Washington, and Christ's standard not of experience but righteousness must prevail. Expediency was the motive power of the Pharisee for whom Christ showed absolutely no sympathy. The spiritual life of Christ must be found in the government as well as in individual life, if we expect to successfully wage this righteous warfare.

Along the lines of social service, the speaker plead for the enforcement and care regarding our child welfare laws, in many places relaxed because of war conditions and abominable selfishness. He further called attention to the fact that had our best child welfare laws of today been in operation and enforced ten years ago there would not have been 60 per cent of our young men rejected for service because of physical unfitness today; an appalling condition. Nor can the world today afford to commercialize the Sabbath as it is trying through certain legislative measures backed by selfishness and greed to do. Christ's righteousness alone was shown to be the remedy for such evils and the speaker closed with an emphatic appeal for the bringing up to His standard the spiritual life of the individual, the community and the nation. In a battle a regiment was ordered forward into action, and instantly the color bearer sprang forward, before the men were quite ready to follow him. The commanding officer called to the color bearer to bring the colors back to the regiment, but he replied, "Please, sir, bring the regiment to the colors." That must be the attitude of the world today. It must individually, nationally, universally be brought to the colors of Christ if right and truth are to win.

CONFIRMATION OF CLAIMS OPPOSED

William H. Grogan and William McM. Speer appeared for New York city and opposed the confirmation of nine of the awards in the fifth separate report of Damage Commission No. 4. No objection was made to confirmation of the other awards in the report. The matter was heard before Judge Howard Saturday at a special term of the supreme court at Troy. The judge reserved decision. The claimants were represented by Senator Walton, Mayor Canfield, Howard Chipp, F. E. W. Darrow, County Judge Jenkins, and Arthur A. Brown.

TO SPEAK UPON COLONIAL SILVER

The Albany Knickerbocker Press states that Mohawk Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold its chapter day at the Executive Mansion at Albany, as the guests of Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, the wife of the governor of the state, and that it has invited Judge Clearwater to deliver an address upon the subject of "American Colonial Silver," and that the judge has accepted.

The study of colonial silver has been one of Judge Clearwater's recreations for years. It is a subject upon which he has been frequently invited to deliver addresses, but usually has declined, and with the exception of an address delivered at Vassar College, Poughkepsie, two or three years ago, he has not spoken upon this subject.

Successful Union Services.

The union of the three uptown churches, which originated in an effort to conserve the coal supplies, is proving to be successful in attracting large congregations and developing deep interest Last night at St. James's Methodist Episcopal Church there was a very large congregation, while there was manifest a most delightful spirit of unity. The sermon on "The Sufficiency of Christ" was delivered by Rev. F. B. Sceley, and it was a forceful putting of the theme. The union Young People's service was largely attended also. Next Sunday night the service will again be in St. James's Church, and the preacher will be Dr. Leeper. Tht success of these meetings might suggest the wisdom of other churches combining, as these have, in their Sunday night services and their prayer meetings on Thursdays.

Christy Mathewson, manager of the Cincinnati National League Club and known to all fandom as the greatest pitcher that ever pulled on a glove, paid an unexpected visit to the boys in training at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala. Many of the boys at the camp had often worshipped the "Great Matty" from a bleacher seat, and his call sure was a treat. Matty enjoyed the visit immensely and, after dining, soldier fashion, washed and dried his own dishes.

CATTLE EAT NUTS AND DIE

Why Unshelled and Unboiled Food Should Not Be Fed to Live Stock.

Because of the shortage of fodder in Holland farmers have been feeding their live stock with nuts, and as a result many of the cattle have died and the health of a large percentage has been affected seriously.

Frank W. Mahin, United States consul at Amsterdam, writes that all kinds of substitutes for fodder have been fed to animals. The death of stall-fed animals has been frequent and is attributed to spoiled or otherwise unwholesome food. In many such cases the animals have been freely given acorns, chestnuts and beechnuts, unshelled and uncooked. All of these nuts, it is averred, in their natural state have poisonous elements, especially in the shells. It is said that horses have died within two hours after eating raw and unshelled beechnuts in considerable quantities, the stomach and intestines being fatally disordered.

Experts advise that nuts be fed to stock in limited quantities, not more than a kilogramme (2.2 pounds) at the utmost daily, and then only after they have been shelled and boiled, care being taken to throw away the boiling water. It is remarked, however, that nuts can be fed more freely to pigs than to other animals, and that, besides, they are very fattening.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH IS PROSPEROUS

The annual report of St. Joseph's Church was submitted to the parishioners by Rev. John H. Briody Sunday, showing a decrease of $5,000 of the debt on the new parochial school on Wall street.

The total receipts amounted to $16,592.34 and the balance on hand December 31, 1916, was reported as $2,614.22. The largest receipts of the year were from plate collections, amounting to $3,595.89, the weekly sittings $3,856.75, pew rent $1,200.28, and the net receipts of entertainments $1,175.38. The year's disbursements amounted to $15,774.19, leaving a balance on hand of $818.15.

St. Joseph's spiritual census shows that its parish contains 1,700 persons and that during the year there were 23,300 holy communions. Twenty-seven marriages were performed in the parish, 57 baptisms and four converts were received.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Abram Simmons, for many years a highly respected citizen of the town of Olive, died at his home in Ruby on Saturday, January 19, after a short illness, aged 81 years. Funeral services will be held at his late home on Wednesday, January 23, at 10:30 a. m. Interment at Woodstock.

Abbie W. Weiner, widow of Abram Bernstein, died Sunday at her home in New York city, in her 62nd year. Funeral upon arrival of the 2:25 West Shore train Tuesday afternoon with interment in Wiltwyck cemetery. She is a former resident of this city, her husband having a store on the Strand.

Frank Derrenbacher, a former resident of this city, died Sunday afternoon of pneumonia at his home in New Rochelle, aged about 45 years. The funeral will be held from the late residence Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. Derrenbacher was what is known as a self made man in the fullest respect and at the time of his death held an important position with the Knickerbocker Ice Company with offices in New York city. He was a son of John D. Derrenbacher, who is an officer at Sing Sing prison, and who survives him. Besides his wife and two children he is also survived by three sisters, Minnie, Mattie and Juliette and one brother, Leo, all of whom reside with his father at Ossining. Deceased is well known in this city and was here on a visit only a short time ago. The news of his sudden death was received Sunday afternoon and came as a shock to his host of friends.

Judd Van O'Linda died Sunday afternoon at the Kingston City Hospital in his 35th year from injuries received when a gas tank exploded at Hiltebrant's shipyard last year. He has been confined to the hospital ever since the accident. Van O'Linda is the third man to die as a result of the explosion of the tank which was being tested at the time. These tanks were used on the subchasers that were built at the shipyard for the government. Van O'Linda was employed by the shipyard. The remains were turned over to Undertaker Wachmeyer and this morning left on the 6:32 train for Philadelphia where the funeral will be held Wednesday from the home of deceased sister, Mrs. Roberts. The remains were accompanied to Philadelphia by George Wachmeyer. The other men who died from the effects of the explosion of the tank were Theodore Messinger and William Hauck.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 21.—There was only a small amount of business at the opening of the stock market today, with traders dealing only in the most active issues. The opening tone was steady with prices generally showing an improved tone. Steel Common rose ⅝ to 91⅛ and Bethlehem Steel B was ⅞ higher at 75¾. Mexican Petroleum was a strong feature advancing 1⅞ to 91¾. Marine Preferred after opening ½ higher at 90 yielded to 88⅞, and the common dropped ½ to 22¾. The copper stocks were strong, American Smelting advancing 1½ to 83⅝, while fractional gains were scored in Anaconda and Utah.

The market moved along in good shape all through the forenoon today without the aid of the usual facilities for business of light, heat and power in compliance with the mandate of the fuel administrator. Outside wires with operators writing by candle light brought in many buying all through the forenoon. Mexican Petroleum advanced 2⅝ to 92½ and American Smelting moved up 1¾ to 84¼. Texas Company moved up four points to 149½, and there was a good demand for industrials generally with Steel Common advancing 1⅜ to 91⅞ and Bethlehem Steel B advancing 1¼ to 76⅛. United Cigar Stores was influenced by reports of a coming stock dividend and rose 2¾ to 96. Marine Preferred after selling at 88¾ moved up to 91.

During the afternoon American Sugar became prominent, advancing 4¼ to 103¾. American Beet Sugar was also strong, selling at 77, a gain of over 2 points. Tobacco Products advanced 2 points to above 54 and Mexican Petroleum sold at 92⅞, a gain of 3 points in all.

The market closed steady today; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

Time for Discretion.

"Why, I've got one foot in the grave and the other foot on a banana peel, so to speak," responds a man of sixty-five, sued for breach of promise in New York. Under such circumstances there is every reason why a man should exercise discretion.—Boston Globe.

Watch and Man Alike.

The watch that works only by fits and starts is never to be trusted. Nor is the man who does his work in the same way ever capable of the highest achievement possible to his station. With men as with watches the test lies in being right and reliable all the time.

DIED.

BERNSTEIN—In New York city, Sunday, January 20, Abbie W. Weiner, widow of the late Abram Bernstein, in her 62nd year.

Funeral upon arrival of the 2:25 West Shore train Tuesday afternoon. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

SIMS—On Saturday, January 19, 1918, at her home, 66 West Chester street, Elizabeth Sturgeon, wife of N. A. Sims.

Funeral services at the residence, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Kindly omit flowers. Interment at convenience of the family.

SWEENEY—In this city, on Sunday night, January 20, 1918, Margaret M., beloved daughter of Patrick Sweeney, aged 19 years.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral from her late home, No. 93, Newkirk avenue, Wednesday morning at 8:45 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 9:30, where a mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The dance which was to have been held Tuesday evening in the Port Ewen hall has been postponed until Wednesday evening.

Miss Minnie Myers of 98 Henry street delightfully entertained a few of her friends on Thursday evening. The evening was spent in dancing and selections being rendered on the Victrola. At midnight lunch was served and the guests departed in the wee small hours of the morning, declaring their hostess a royal entertainer.

Some twenty women of the local Federation of Women's Clubs, the officers and such other members as were able to do so, enjoyed luncheon at The Stuyvesant on Saturday, preceding the afternoon meeting of the Federation. Mrs. Bidwell of Albany, chairman of the Third District, was the guest of honor, and all present spoke appreciatively both of the delicious luncheon served and the pleasant social feature of thus getting together to talk over the work that women in the community may do at the present time.

Smyth-Lowe.

William James Smyth and Miss Ella Morse Lowe of 628 Broadway were quietly married Sunday by the Rev. T. H. Baragwanath, pastor of St. James's M. E. Church. They were attended by Albert W. Lowe and Minnie S. Prescott.

Holstein-Bigler.

Estella Bigler of Hudson street Port Ewen, and Lafayette Holstein of St. Remy, Private Company M, Spartanburg, S. C., were married Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout. They were attended by Oscar LeFever of New York city and Eleanor Bigler a sister of the bride.

Crum-Rorrick.

William Crum of No. 55 Gage street and Miss Emma Rorrick of No 56 Grant street, were united in marriage at the parsonage of the Livingston Street German Lutheran Church on Tuesday, January 15, by the pastor, the Rev. F. T. Schroeder. They were attended by Miss Ethel Crum, a sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Emerick Schilling as best man. Both bride and groom have the well wishes of a host of friends for a long and prosperous married life.

Pardee-Way.

Addison D. Pardee, the well known insurance man, and Miss Kathryn Way of No 136 St. James street, were quietly married Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the groom, No 177 Highland avenue, by the Rev P. C. Weyant, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church. The only witnesses were A. R. Pardee and Mrs. Gertrude Pardee Dederick, brother and sister of the groom, and Edward P. Way of Albany, a brother of the bride. The bride is a graduate of the Kingston City Hospital and the groom is a member of the insurance firm on lower Broadway. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pardee have the well wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy married life.

Booth-Fields.

Miss Gertrude Fields, who at one time resided at 27 Oak street, was married Thursday evening at Poughkeepsie by the Rev. John McNab, the groom bing Sgt. Ernest R. Booth, son of Mrs. J. M. Kaiser, of 143 Union street. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Hilda M. Schneider and Jacob Fields, a brother of the bride. Following the ceremony a reception was tendered the newly wedded couple at the bride's home, No. 57 South Clover street. Sgt. Booth was formerly stationed at Camp Upton, L. I., as a regular army instructor, later being transferred to Charlotte, N. C. He also composed the poem, "The Uniform We Wear," which was published here not long ago. The groom also has many friends here and is well known in this city. Mrs. Booth will reside in Poughkeepsie for the present.

Pleasant Surprise Party.

The home of Rufus Freer, 10 South Pine street, on Thursday evening, January 17, was the scene of a surprise party in honor of his 27th birthday. At midnight a buffet luncheon was served and all departed in the wee small hours of the morning, voting their host and hostess royal entertainers. Those present were Mrs. Jason Bush and son, Alfred, Miss Goldie Bush and John Nagel, Mrs. Charles Slater and son, Kenneth, Miss Ada Slater, Mrs. Ira Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson and daughter, Laura B., Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ellsworth, Miss Ethel Ellsworth and Miss Evelyn Ellsworth, and Miss Shirley Frances Ellsworth, Mrs. Wright Mains, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kelly, Miss Bertha Parks, Earl Rorrick, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Freer, Walter Freer, Master Samuel Freer, Rufus Freer, Helen Rorrick, George Bush, Joseph Bush, Oliver Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bush and daughter, Lily Mae, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bush and Pearl Bush.

Birthday Party at Bloomington.

Bloomington, Jan. 21.—A birthday surprise was given to Gustave Meike on Saturday evening, January 19, at the Bloomington Hall. At about 8 o'clock word was sent to Mr. Meike to come to the hall on the pretense of looking over some of the books of the American Mechanics' Lodge, of which Mr. Meike is a member. When he entered the hall, much to his surprise he found instead of the books his many friends gathered there to help him celebrate his birthday. Cheers arose from all present, and after Mr. Meike recovered from the shock, the dancing began, everyone present taking a part in the fun. The music was furnished by Miss Frances Castor of Kingston and Miss Mildred DuBois and Robert Van Etten of this place. The latest dances were danced by the younger set, while some of the old fashioned square dances were enjoyed by the older ones. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Ira D. Bush and Miss Edith Meike. The greatest attraction of this part was the immense birthday cake with its many lighted candles which was both beautiful to the eye and palatable to the taste. During the illumination of the birthday cake, a toast was given by Mrs. J. Zuelch, which was as follows:

"Here's to Gustave Meike, that he may live as long as he likes and do as he likes and have what he likes as long as he lives." The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present and at about midnight the guests departed for their homes, all wishing Mr. Meike many happy returns of the day.

Five Generations Present.

On Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Lowe at 322 Hasbrouck avenue, this city, a birthday surprise party was given to Mrs. George Bigler, Sr., of Port Ewen, in honor of her eighty-sixth birthday. Mrs. Bigler received a social .. lgalyimchibft VS betwo number of useful gifts, and participated in all the jollity of the evening. She is still enjoying good health and it was the best wishes of those present that she will live to see more years that are yet to come. During the evening a complete surprise was had, when Lafayette Holstein and his bride of one day, nee Miss Estella Bigler of Port Ewen, edged their way in to the midst of the birthday party. A dinner was served in honor of Mrs. Bigler's birthday but in the peculiar circumstances, some of the honor had to be given to the bride and groom. Mr. Holstein is a member of Co. M, now at Spartanburg, S. C. The event was indeed a good old family reunion, more so because there were five generations represented. Mrs. George Bigler, Sr., her son Herman Bigler of West Union street, this city; Mr. Bigler's daughter, Mrs. William Moyle of Brewster street, this city; Mrs. Moyle's daughter, Mrs. Hewitt Barth of Staples street, this city and Mrs. Barth's daughter Marion, who made up the five generations. Those present at the party were Mrs. George Bigler, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bigler, Mr. and Mrs. William Moyle, Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Barth, and daughter Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brenn, Mr. and Mrs George E. Lowe and Herman Bigler.

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

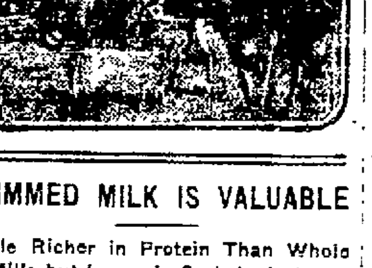
Rev A. Schmidtkonz left town this morning for New York city to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the Synod.

Miss Mary Forde, daughter of William Forde of Lucas avenue, who recently fractured her arm as the result of a fall on the ice, is improving.

Today W. Frank Davis of Crown street, who has been for several weeks engaged in special accountant work, assumed his duties as official bookkeeper of the Kingston Water Works Department.

City Engineer and Mrs Edward B. Codwise have returned home from New York city, where Mr. Codwise has been attending the annual meeting of one of the engineering societies of which he is a member. They visited Camp Upton at Yaphank, Long Island, and are unstinted in their praise of conditions which they found there.

DAIRY



SKIMMED MILK IS VALUABLE

Little Richer in Protein Than Whole Milk, but Lower in Carbohydrates —Feeding Calves.

Skimmed milk is a little richer in protein than whole milk, but lower in carbohydrates. Since most of the fat has been removed in the cream the skimmed milk will need carbohydrates to make it a balanced ration for calves.

A good plan is to replace a portion of the whole milk with skimmed milk, gradually increase the skimmed milk with some form of carbohydrates till all of the whole milk is replaced by skimmed milk. Fine ground meal is one of the best carbohydrate supplements to be fed with skimmed milk. Some feeders cook the meal, stir it in the skimmed milk and feed it to the calf. After the calf is two weeks old it will eat fine ground meal and if fed small quantities will assimilate it. Linseed meal is also used.

Care should be taken in feeding calves. They should be taught to drink from the pail as soon as possible. Nothing but clean vessels should be used and the milk should be clean and warm.

An Indian Dawn.

I awoke—and beyond the great trees I saw the dawn come up like thunder, as it does on Mandalay. Exactly like thunder it came up, rolling, rising, crashing clouds of copper and dull gold, reddening, breaking, mounting, out-topping one another.—Atlantic.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

EMEU AND OSTRICH.

"The emeu family," said Daddy, "look a little like the ostrich family. At any rate they are similar in size.

Mrs. Emeu.

"They have very long legs and instead of beautiful feathers their bodies are covered with something which looks very much like gray hay. Their necks, which are long, also have the same kind of hay covering.

"They are becoming very rare and are such strange creatures that sometimes they are called birds and sometimes they are called just 'Creatures.'

"Mr. and Mrs. Emeu were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich one day when Mr. Ostrich began talking of the children.

"'You see,' he said, 'we looked after them together, and so they are very fine—our children. In the daytime Mrs. Ostrich would sit on the eggs and at night I would tell her to rest and I would sit on them.'

"'Yes, we divided our time over the children,' said Mrs. Ostrich. 'In fact it's usual with our families for the fathers and mothers to share the attention given to the children.'

"'Our children speak well for our training,' said Mr. Ostrich. 'They like being pets of both their daddy and mother and even though they are only eggs at first and know nothing about it, they feel, when they reach the open world, that they are as fine as they can be.'

"'It's good of Mr. Ostrich to help me,' said his wife. 'I get tired enough sitting on the eggs all day. I'm glad of the rest when night comes.'

"'Of course,' said Mr. Emeu. 'It is something the way with you as it is with us. I help Mrs. Emeu, but then I find she lets me take over all the work to do.'

"'To be sure,' said Mrs. Emeu. 'And why not? I always say to myself, that if you're willing to work, it would be foolish of me to stop you. Yes, that is what I always say.'

"'You certainly do,' said Mr. Emeu, 'and you live up to your words too.'

"'Don't you sit on your eggs during the days?' asked Mrs. Ostrich. 'I like to have a hand in the hatching out of the eggs.'

"'I hardly call it having a hand in the hatching when you sit on the eggs, my love,' said Mr. Ostrich with a foolish smile. 'And besides you haven't a hand.'

"'I know,' said Mrs. Ostrich, 'but it's something creatures and people say so I thought I would too.'

"'You asked me a question,' said Mrs. Emeu. 'Do you or don't you want to have it answered? From the way you are going on talking it would appear that you do not wish to be informed.'

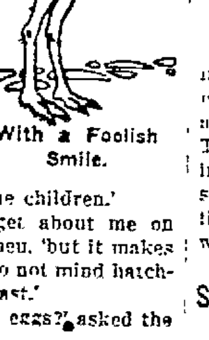
"'How grandly you talk, Mrs. Emeu,' said Mrs. Ostrich. 'To be sure I do wish to have my question answered.'

"'She talks grandly,' said Mr. Emeu, 'because she can spend her time thinking of words and so forth. She does not have to work, nor even look after her children.'

"'Right, my dear,' said Mrs. Emeu, 'but as I said before you always offer to help me, so I give right up to you.'

"'You give work right up to me,' agreed Mrs. Emeu.

"'You see it is this way,' Mrs. Emeu explained. 'Mr. Emeu finds me laying the eggs and he always says, "Oh, can't I do that for you?" Now wouldn't it be extremely foolish of me to say that he could not. If he is so willing, I must be willing too. And then I get used to being idle and doing nothing but wander about and I forget about Mr. Emeu until I find he is looking after the children.'



With a Foolish Smile.

"'I think you forget about me on purpose,' said Mr. Emeu, 'but it makes no difference—for I do not mind hatching the eggs in the least.'

"'Do you hatch the eggs?' asked the ostrich.

"'Yes,' said Mr. Emeu, 'Mrs. Emeu lays them, then I hatch them out and what is more I look after the children until they are able to care for themselves.'

"'Well, that is strange,' said Mrs. Ostrich. 'We like to divide the time.'

"'It all simply means,' said Mrs. Emeu, 'that you follow the ways of the ostrich family and I follow the ways of the emeu family.'"

As a Starting Point.

There are some people who make their start just about the time that others are giving up. When everything looks dark and discouraging they roll up their sleeves and pitch in. People who have the root of success in them never think of surrendering because they have failed once. They make that failure the starting point of another effort, and hold to it with a persistence and a determination which are bound to win in time.—Girl's Companion.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

PROTECT ALL SMALL FRUITS

Mulching Is Recommended to Pull Them Through Drying Blasts of Winter Weather.

Small fruits should be protected from the drying blasts of the winter winds if they are to come through the winter in good shape for bearing an abundant crop next season.

Old straw or strawy stable manure makes an ideal mulching material. In fact any material of this sort will do but coarse mulches such as fodder are not so satisfactory. The mulch is applied three to four or even six inches deep and it may be put on by hand or with a manure spreader. Where the patch to be mulched is small the hand method is efficient but where a person has a large area of berries to cover the manure spreader will economize in both time and labor.

Where there is danger from winter killing the bush fruits such as blackberries had best be laid down before mulching. This is not usually necessary excepting with red raspberries or with tender varieties of the other bush fruits.

Laying down is accomplished by first plowing or spading a furrow along one side of the row and close to the plants. The bushes may then be bent over into this excavation and the earth which has been removed thrown over them. A mulch may then be applied over this.

HOW TO GROW STRAWBERRIES

Success of Crop Depends on Clean Cultivation—Allowing Weeds to Grow Is Mistake.

(Clemson College Bulletin.)

Cultivation is the secret of success in strawberry growing. It should be thorough and clean. A frequent mistake made by many growers is allowing the bed to grow up in weeds after the berries are harvested. At the end of the harvest the mulch should be removed or incorporated into the soil, depending upon the amount and the condition of the mulching material, and then the plants cultivated thoroughly. Frequent shallow cultivation should continue throughout the summer.

Ordinarily, fertilizer will not be needed until early fall, at which time a liberal amount of commercial fertilizer or decomposed stable manure may be applied preparatory to mulching.

The plants should be grown in narrow matted rows by the single-crown method. Better and larger berries are produced by the single-crown method. Plants that were set last fall or the past spring should not be allowed to form runners or new plants, as it is very necessary that the growth be concentrated in the parent plant for a maximum crop next spring.

The bed is unprofitable after the third season, and should be plowed up unless plants are needed for fall planting.

Further information concerning strawberry culture can be obtained by writing the extension division, Clemson College, S. C.

FRUITS NEED GOOD DRAINAGE

Even More Important for Orchard Than for Other Farm Crops—Look After Outlets.

Fruit farm drainage is even more important than draining for farm crops, as fruit plants, shrubs, vines and trees will not thrive in wet soil. The outlets of tile drains need looking after several times each year to see that they do not get clogged. Sometimes the outlet tile, being exposed to winter frosts, crumbles.

SLOPING LAND FOR ORCHARD

To Be Preferred for Fruit Trees, Other Things Being Equal—Has Better Drainage.

As a rule, it is doubtless safe to assume that a site having a moderate slope in some direction is to be preferred for orchard purposes, other things being equal, to one that is level. One having a slope will usually have better soil and atmospheric drainage than a level area.

VALUE OF BEES RECOGNIZED

Many Fruits Do Not Produce and Distribute Pollen on Their Own Stigmas—Bees Help.

Fruit growers recognize the value of bees for distributing pollen. There are many fruits that do not produce and distribute pollen on their own stigmas. Some, owing to cool, damp weather, may not be self-fertile unless bees or other agencies help.

Many Bad People.

It is said that each year 500,000 persons are committed to some jail or reformatory. In 1910 the total number of prisoners and juvenile delinquents in the United States was 168,472. Ten times as many males as females are imprisoned.

FAST HORSE RACING ON RONDOUT CREEK

Saturday afternoon some fast horse races were staged on the ice of the Rondout creek under the auspices of the Kingston Horse Owners' Association, and a large crowd witnessed some exciting sport. Only one accident marred the sport of the day. Fletcher Banks, a negro was hit by one of the racing cutters and sustained a gash in his head and a severe shaking up. Sunday he was forced to walk with the aid of a cane, but his injuries are not considered serious. At the time of the accident he was hurried to Dr. Stern's office on the Strand and his injuries were attended to.

So successful was the first racing card that another series of races will be staged this Saturday afternoon weather condition permitting.

The Shawm.

A shawm was a wind instrument of the oboe class but with a wider bell. It is a very old type of musical instrument, as it is spoken of by the Psalmist. The Romans used it freely. There were treble shawms and bass shawms, and the name gradually gave way about the sixteenth century to "mohay" or "howhoy," eventually evolving to "oboe."

"BUDDY" SAID HE COULD NOT PAY $5

A Week Toward Support of His Son So Judge Schirick Sent Him to Jail for Three Months—Dugan Charged With Non-Support.

Peter Dugan, Jr., better known among his friends as "Buddy" will spend the remaining three months in the county jail as he decided that he could not afford to pay $5 a week toward the support of his only son, a youngster about seven years old.

According to Judge N. Frank O'Reilly, who represented Mrs. Dugan, she had started an action for a separation last year and in April of that year Judge Hasbrouck had directed that Dugan pay $5 a week toward the support of his wife. About that time "Buddy" disappeared, and could not be located. Since then alimony has kept piling up until it amounted to about $218. This amount Mrs. Dugan was willing to waive provided her husband agreed to commence payment from now on of the amount stated. She had no desire to see her husband jailed but did think he should contribute $5 a week toward the upbringing of his son.

"How do you plead?" asked Judge Schirick when "Buddy" was arraigned.

"Guilty your honor," replied "Buddy" promptly.

Judge O'Reilly suggested that the matter be held open for a month if "Buddy" agreed to pay the weekly allotment and that he be allowed to withdraw his plea and enter a plea of not guilty.

"I can't afford $5 a week and don't want to withdraw my plea," said "Buddy."

"To be frank with you," said Judge Schirick, "I think you are drinking that amount each week."

"What can you pay?" asked Judge O'Reilly.

"I can't pay $5," replied "Buddy." He continued, "the child absolutely refuses to speak to me when I meet it on the street. I can't afford over $2 a week."

"Are you working?" asked the court.

"I have been working on the ice getting $3 a day and my board," said "Buddy," "and I can get a job at Schodack Landing on the ice again."

"Do you want to accept your wife's offer and agree to pay her the $5 a week?" said the court.

"I can't afford it," retorted "Buddy" promptly.

"Three months in jail," retorted the court as promptly.

The hardiest palm at all common is California's Trachycarpus excelsus, known as the windmill palm. Not alone is it hardy in withstanding low temperatures, but it is tough and will endure rough treatment, but boxed it is not a success.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Sooner or later your good work or your bad work will find you out, and you will either get promoted or be given a seat on the toboggan.

NUT OMELET.

Put through a meat grinder, nuts to make a half cupful when ground. Beat three eggs very light, season to taste with salt and pepper and add three tablespoonfuls of cold water, add the nut meats and mix well. Put a little butter in the omelet pan and pour in the omelet mixture, lift the edges until it is firm all over, being careful not to scorch it, then fold and send to the table on a hot dish.

Unusual Cabbage Salad.—Shave or shred very fine one small firm head of cabbage, add a half cupful of chopped almonds that have been blanched, four or five ripe bananas also finely cut, mix with a cupful of sour cream, salt, pepper, and a dash of vinegar, if the cream is not sufficiently acid. Serve with crackers and cheese.

Different Dried Beef.—Put three tablespoonfuls of bacon fat on a frying pan, and add a half pound of dried beef picked in small pieces or cut in shreds with the scissors. Frizzle for three minutes, then put the beef on a hot platter. Place three bananas cut in halves crosswise and in quarters lengthwise, let them stand over the heat long enough to become thoroughly hot, five minutes will be sufficient time. Arrange around the beef and serve all piping hot.

Chili Con Carne.—Take all the seeds from two pods of chili pepper. Soak the pods in warm water until soft, then scrape the pulp from the skins, discarding the skins, saving the pulp and the water. Cut two pounds of round steak into small pieces and cook them in the frying pan in melted butter or sweet drippings until brown, and four tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until the flour is brown, add a clove of garlic in which two gashes have been cut, then the chili pulp and water, of which there should be a pint. Let simmer until the meat is tender, adding more water if needed. Season well. Soak a cupful of kidney or Mexican beans in soft water over night. Let simmer until tender, drain, and add to the meat, or they may be heated in a little hot fat and served in a dish apart from the meat.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Augustus Green, who has been seriously ill, is much improved.

Mrs. Augustus Green, who has been seriously ill, is much improved.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was shown in Winchell's Hall recently. Quite a crowd turned out.

The Ladies' Aid Society met at the parsonage Thursday, where they had dinner and spent a very pleasant day together.

The Community Club held its annual election of officers Thursday evening at the club rooms. Those elected for the coming year were: President, Charles Giles; vice president, Hazzie Wager, secretary, Rev. J. D. Blanchard; treasurer, Frank Barringer; sergeant at arms, George Dibbell.

Harry Braithwaite is ready to take on all comers with his speedy gray mare.

What do you think of people who buy coal when they own a wood lot, and others who use coal when they live in a town surrounded by woods, and in the cities children are freezing to death? It is a queer world, all right.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Doyle have returned from a two weeks' stay in New York.

William Harlow had the misfortune to lose several bushels of vegetables by freezing.

There are several abandoned farms for sale in this vicinity.

Our school is considerably larger than it was at the beginning of the school year. Mrs. Windrum, the teacher, is well liked by both scholars and parents.

The tax gatherers have come and gone. Because of the low taxes there were no complaints heard, which is quite an unheard of state of affairs.

We hear of several women who refuse to sign food cards. Shame, we say. They are some slackers.

There is quite a demand for thrift stamps at the post office. This is certainly a good way to save money.

Neil Windrum and John Rainey are cutting wood on the Peacock place on the mountain. Claude Rose is hauling it for them.

Mrs. Sarah Barringer is recovering from her illness.

Mr. Adsit and Mr. Warren, who are employed on electrical work in the gas chamber, are boarding at Mrs. Mary Greene's.

John Blackwell is now able to go out of doors after his recent sickness.

Merritt Personeus, the first of our boys to enter the National Army, is now stationed at Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. I. P. Winne of Kingston has returned after spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Sally Eckert. Mrs. Eckert, although over 90 years of age, is in fairly good health.

A deer was seen strolling through our village one day recently.

The friends of Engineer Winifred Hubbard, of the B. W. S., are glad to learn that he is rapidly recovering from a severe illness.

Winston's plant has shut down because of the government order, although they burn wood almost altogether.

A wood bee was held at Mrs. Emma Every's Thursday.

Sergeant "Jack" Smith, of the B. W. S. police, is spending a few days with his family in New York.

"Larry," an Austrian, employed at Winston's plant, had several fingers badly injured one day last week. He was conveyed to the Benedictine Sanitarium for treatment.

The city has temporarily abandoned the attempt to stop the leak in the dyke at West Hurley, as a result of which several local men have been laid off.

Domine Blanchard had a fine pile of seasoned cord wood sawed up recently.

We wonder why New York city, with all its vast forests here, does not ship wood to the city to help relieve the fuel shortage there.

MARBLETOWN.

Marbletown, Jan. 21.—Harvey Jones has returned to his home in Waterbury, Conn., after spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones.

Judge Myer had a narrow escape one day the past week. A load of hay slid on the icy road, upset, throwing him off. Fortunately no bones were broken, although he was slightly injured and shaken up.

William Sanford is confined to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Lockwood spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christiana of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Markle spent one day the past week with friends at Lomontville.

A number of people in this place have been suffering with severe colds.

Nurses Restore Victims of Infantile Paralysis

PARALIZED MUSCLES BEING RESTORED TO USE.

WITHOUT NURSING CARE THERE IS NO HOPE AHEAD FOR THIS LITTLE ONE.

By Muscle Training They Save Children From Being Helpless Cripples.

There was probably not a mother or father in the country in the summer of 1916 who did not follow with anxious interest the accounts of the epidemic of infantile paralysis. Many of them may have wondered since what became of the little victims of the disease and thought of them perhaps as helpless cripples. It will be encouraging to them to know that thousands of these children who were on their backs a year ago, with every prospect of remaining there perhaps for the rest of their lives, are now, thanks to physicians, nurses and masseurs, in school with normal children of their own age.

In New York city alone 7,000 children who would have been helpless cripples are being cured by "muscle education," administered by trained nurses and masseurs. In one month these children receive 22,000 treatments. Each one is under the care of a nurse, who sees that it attends a clinic if able. If not, the nurse administers the muscle training in the home. It is literally impossible in most cases for one of these children to escape being cured, according to physicians in charge of the Committee on After Care of Infantile Paralysis of New York city, which is co-operating with 50 hospitals and clinics in directing the work. If one fails to report at a clinic, committee headquarters is immediately notified and the nurse goes to the child's home the following day and takes it to the hospital. The mother or some other member of the family is taught to assist in this muscle training.

The work of after care in infantile paralysis is not confined to one locality. Wherever the epidemic raged in the summer of 1916 and wherever public health nurses are employed it is being carried on along the same lines.

Here is a good example of the treatment: One of the 7,000 cases of the Committee on After Care is a four-year girl who 13 months ago was paralyzed from the neck down and strapped to an iron frame.

She was so young that her training had to be given in the form of play. Every day for 13 months the nurse has called at her home and put her through play exercises, combining them with massage and electrical treatment. Each exercise has been designed to educate the hardened muscles.

When the nurse began her work every muscle in the child's body had lost what the doctors call its "working brain" and was practically dead. Today these muscles are beginning to live again. The iron frame to which she was strapped has been discarded. The little patient can now move about and stretch her arms. In two years the doctor promises her mother she will be well and, like other children, able to go to school with sturdy youngsters of her own age, not compelled to hobble on crutches to a school for crippled children.

The after care of victims of the poliomyelitis is only one phase of public health nursing which is today calling young women from the best homes and the best schools of the country into the nursing ranks.
